Customer Profiles

Would you like an opportunity to showcase your business to Green Valley's newsletter readership? If you are a current Green Valley customer (purchased in the last 3 months), we would love to put a profile of you and your business in our newsletter.

What we are looking for is about 150 words - a description about your business and how Green Valley's essential oils and aromatherapy products play a part in it. The audience is varied and geographically all over the world. We would also appreciate it if you could send your business's logo or a photo of you to go along with the article.

Green Valley Aromatherapy

June 2009

LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Aroma Friends,

I am so happy to welcome in June. It's a busy month with camping, gardening, etc. It's also a romantic month with June brides and young lovers strolling along the river. Everything looks fresh and beautiful and the air is intoxicating. In the words of Lao Tzu "Nature does not hurry yet everything is accomplished".

I hope all the talk of Swine Flu* does not spoil your summer events! I have been amazed at the awareness of this H1N1 flu and the reaction of children to it. I have heard of children asking if they are going to die because they have a cold. One mom observed her young daughter and her friends playing with Barbies, and in their make believe world a Barbie doll caught Swine Flu, died and they had a funeral for her!

Call me old fashioned but it does not feel right the way children adapt to the things they see on TV. I do believe in education but I also think that "ignorance is bliss". According to Wikipedia it is very uncommon for humans to pick up the influenza virus from pigs, and properly cooked pork poses no risk of infection. The symptoms generally are flue like: chills, fever, sore throat, muscle pains, headache, coughing, weakness and general discomfort. If you feel you are coming down with something stay home and use your essential oils (more details to follow).

We are starting to plan our August 2009 price list and are looking for your input! If there are any products you'd like to see us add, please email me directly.

Also, I have begun writing some interesting articles for Suite 101 and I encourage you to check them out. My latest one is about Florence Nightingale and her contribution to both nursing and aromatherapy. You can read it here.

Swine flu is a form of influenza type A. Although it is called Swine Flu, the H1N1 virus is a combination of viruses that typically infect birds, pigs and humans separately.*

Online Presence

You can now find Green Valley Aromatherapy on facebook and LinkedIn. Please be sure to add your link to ours. Barb has also been accepted as an aromatherapy writer for Suite101.

Product Change - Lavender

As you may remember from our March newsletter, we stocked up on our Bulgarian Lavender as we had been advised that the price was going up dramatically. We have now managed to source a very nice French Lavender (the same species, Lavandula angustifolium) which, although it will be a little more expensive than the Bulgarian, we know you will like.

Product Highlight - Personal Start Up Kit

Green Valley has created an outstanding Start-up Kit for those of you wanting to practice in your own "The period of greatest gain in knowledge and experience is the most difficult period in ones life."
